Malcolm Quits House

Black Nationalist leader Malcolm X had his family and belongings out of that house in Queens yesterday before the arrival of the eviction papers obtained by the Black Muslims, who claimed the house as theirs. Afterward, he ridiculed charges that he, rather than the Muslims, was responsible for the fire-bomb that was tossed into the house last week, causing considerable damage. He also said he plans to apply for a permit to carry a gun, although he doesn't expect to get it because of his police record. He said he needed to protect himself because Black Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad has issued an order for his execution and "police have done little to protect me."

Grumbling Over Malcolm X

There's some grumbling in Great Britain in the wake of Malcolm X's visit there. For one thing, Conservative Member of Parliament Peter Griffiths, of the town of Smethwick, plans to ask Home Secretary Sir Frank Soskice, to ban X from Great Britain as an undesirable alien. X visited Smethwick last week and Griffiths said that racially tense community is "an area where everyone should use the greatest restraint."

BOMBED HOME DOESN'T SCARE NEGRO LEADER

Gasoline Bottles Set
Fire To House
Of Malcolm X

FORCED TO FLEE

New York (AP) — Malcolm X, controversial black nationalist leader, whose home was damaged by three gasoline bombs, says, "It doesn't frighten me; it doesn't quiet me down in any way or shut me up."

Malcolm X, who had advocated a doctrine of what he calls Negro self defense against white supremacists, fled safely with his wife and four children early yesterday after the home-made bombs crashed through the living room window.

Damage was termed extensive, but the blaze was quickly extinguished. Police began an investigation.

Authorities believe the devices — bottles filled with gasoline with rags for wicks — were hurled from a passing car into the 2-story home in Elmhurst, Queens.

The house itself is controversial. Malcolm X began occupying it while he was a leader in the Black Muslim organization. He refused to leave after he broke with the Muslims last year and set up his own group.

Malcolm X left by plane for Detroit a few hours after the blaze to address an Afro-American rally. He said he would return to New York today.

Malcolm X said he had received anonymous telephone threats daily for some time.

Joseph X, self-described business manager in the Black Muslims, showed up at the house in Queens shortly after the fire. He told newsmen:

"We own this place, man. He was going to be evicted tomorrow. We have money tied up here. We have to hear about it on the radio. He didn't even give us the courtesy of a phone call."

A Civil Court ruling gave Malcolm until January 31 to vacate the house, but he appealed for a stay. The Negro contended the dwelling was given to him.

Malcolm's wife, Betty, and their daughters — Attilah, 6; Qubilah, 4; Hyasah, 2, and Gamillah, 5 months — were given shelter by residents in the racially mixed neighborhood.

✓ Malcolm X

Malcolm Enjoyed Privileges At U.N.

Without Portfolio Or Accreditation, He Made World Body His Forum

United Nations, N. Y. (NANA) — The late Malcolm X was known to most Americans for preaching violence. But around the United Nations, the tall, well-dressed, erudite Negro was practicing the art of smooth, shadowy diplomacy whose potential influence reached far beyond Harlem.

He was not a delegate, and he was not an accredited journalist. But his political friends had enabled him to treat the U. N. as his political headquarters and ideological platform.

U. N. Security guards struggled and said they had orders not to challenge him as he proudly strode past them, unaccompanied and without credentials. He often was the center of diplomatic parties, swapping lessons in the Koran for political instruction on what he termed America's abuse of the Afro-Americans. For more than a year prior to his violent death, Malcolm X could often be seen rubbing elbows with Afro-Asian diplomats at the U. N. delegates' bar, dispensing information over martinis on subjects like Mississippi, Harlem, and other Negro ghettos, as he liked to call Black America.

his U. N. friends that he was considering two major job offers. One was said to have been as Kwame Nkrumah's anti-American speech-writer and policy adviser on East-West relations.

The other offer reportedly came from Gamal Abdel Nasser, who wanted to put Malcolm in charge of the African section of Cairo's foreign ministry, since Malcolm was both Negro and Moslem.

On his repeated trips to London and Paris, during 1964, Malcolm X had lectured Afro-Asian students studying in those two capitals on the political conditions of the American Negro, pleading with them to disseminate his recipe for action in the countries of their origin.

It is reliably reported from Paris that when the racially tolerant De Gaulle government recently expelled Malcolm as a menace to public order, it acted on the specific request of the Ivory Coast and Senegal Republics, whose Paris ambassadors had become alarmed at the impact Malcolm's racist message had had on African students in Paris. The French government was reportedly satisfied with proffered documentation showing that the American Negro had ample encouragement and material help from Nasser and Nkrumah to subvert the pro-Western oriented Africans.

LITTLE OPEN CONTACT

There had been little open contact between Malcolm X and the envoys of the Communist countries. But many observers have often wondered how the Black Muslim leader, who was admittedly broke in Harlem, could travel to distant corners of the world, afford a bodyguard, sport well-tailored suits and punctuate his well-measured remarks with gestures of neatly manicured hands.

Several months ago, he told

Malcolm Links Klan, Muslims

Malcolm X charged last night that the Black Muslims, the Ku Klux Klan and George Lincoln Rockwell's Nazi party are working together to foster segregation.

The verbal blast was the latest in the exchanges between the former Black Muslim leader and the group he left last year. Malcolm earlier accused the group of hurling three fire bombs Sunday into his home at 23-11 97th St., East Elmhurst, Queens. Joseph X of the Black Muslims intimated that Malcolm set the bombs off himself "to get publicity."

In December of 1963, I met with Jeremiah X in Georgia and the heads of that state's Klan," Malcolm said. "We sat at the same table and negotiated together. The Klan wanted to sell us a county-size parcel of land so that our program of segregation would sound more feasible."

The Klan leader at the meeting was designated with the code number 666, Malcolm said. Klanmen Tell Stories

"We sat at the same table while these men—these Klanmen—told stories about their different escapades," Malcolm said at a meeting of the Organization of Afro-American Unity.

The meeting took place at the Audubon Ballroom, 166th St. and Broadway. About 500 persons attended.

"I'm ashamed to tell you these things but at the time, I was blinded by my faith in Elijah Muhammed [head of the Black Muslims]," he added.

Rockwell corresponded regularly with Muhammed and was permitted to attend all of the group's meetings, Malcolm said.

"The Klan and the Nazis both want the militant Negroes kept in the Black Muslims," Malcolm said. "They know that if the militants were ever unleashed into the civil rights movement, they'd get all the 'Uncle Tom' so-called leaders to stop talking and start doing something."

"Why don't the Black Muslims go bomb the KKK?" Malcolm asked. "Why do they pick on a brother?" I'll tell you why: because I know all about them and the Klan and Rockwell. That's why they want me out of the way."

Re: Communist Influence In Racial Matters
Internal Security - C

On February 12, 1965, a confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, furnished information which disclosed that Rachelle Horowitz (a confidante of Bayard Rustin), and Bayard Rustin were in contact on that date. Rustin, according to the source, told about a recent conference that he, Martin Luther King and others attended in Washington, D.C.

It is noted that the same confidential source furnished information on February 8, 1965, that King and his advisors would meet with the Vice President, Congressional leader and the Attorney General on February 9, 1965. The meeting concerned events in Selma, Alabama.

In remarking about the conference, Rustin said he wrote all of King's material while in Washington, as well as "keep everyone in line".

Rustin said Forman (phonetic) (James Forman, Executive Director of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, SNCC) was in on everything, but was ignored by everyone.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

According to Rustin, he got some of the civil rights leaders who were at the conference to promulgate five basic principles which King should enunciate (during the conference).

In continuing his remarks as to what transpired during the conference, Rustin said that following the conference, he (Rustin) was stopped by Mr. Humphrey (Vice President) and complimented for his "great contribution to the conference". In addition, according to Rustin, Mr. Humphrey told him that he could contact him at any time and went so far as to introduce his assistant as the man he should contact about an appointment. Humphrey, Rustin said, told him that, "I think you are a valuable person in our country and we must keep in touch".

On February 13, 1965, the same confidential source advised that Harry Wachtel was in touch with Bayard Rustin on that date, and made an appointment to meet Rustin on Thursday, February 18, 1965, at 4:00 PM, at his office. However, the source was unable to advise as to what their appointment would concern.

Wachtel told Rustin that King would speak in New York City on March 2, 1965, and wanted them (Wachtel and Rustin) to schedule a meeting of the "Research Committee" for March 1, 2 or 3, 1965. Rustin said he was agreeable to these dates. Wachtel said he would try to finalize these plans, and said he would let Rustin know as soon as they were definite.

With regard to the "Research Committee", it is noted that the same source has advised that this denotes a meeting of King and his advisors.

A confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on February 14, 1965, that Martin Luther King was in contact with Clarence Jones on that date. Among the matters considered was a request by King that Jones write two speeches for him. The speeches are to be presented by King before two Jewish groups. These speeches, King said, were necessary because he had learned from some of his rabbi friends, that Negro-Jewish relations were deteriorating. Those deteriorations, King said, were due partially to the anti-Semitic comments of MALCOLM X, and because other Negro leaders had failed to come to the defense of the Jews. King said the speeches which Jones would write did not necessarily have to be in point because his (King's) presence (before the Jewish groups) should mean something.

The first speech scheduled by King will be on March 4, 1965, in New York City, before 3,000-4,000 Jewish women, comprising the Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal for the purpose of receiving the Eleanor Roosevelt Award; the second speech is scheduled for the annual convention of the American Jewish Committee at the New York Hilton Hotel on May 20, 1965.

Jones told King that he thought a satisfactory resolution was made by the President of the United States of America (with regard to the Selma, Alabama strife). King replied that he was equally pleased with the President's resolve.

Jones told King that he had matters he would like to discuss with him in the future. King said he would be in Alabama on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday (February 15, 16, 17, 1965), and would be away with his wife getting some rest on Thursday through Sunday (February 18, through 20, 1965). King said the possibility existed that they could meet on Tuesday or Wednesday, but made no definite plans.

King, in revealing his plans for the immediate future, said he would be in California on February 25-27, 1965, to attend a big fund raising project. He said he would probably preach there on Sunday, February 28, 1965. The affair, according to King, will include a showing of "The Greatest Story Ever Told", and he said it would "scare the house of about $28,000". In addition, there are two or three wealthy people trying to get 50 couples to give $1,000 and have 26 commitments already. King said they (Southern Christian Leadership Conference, SCLC) needed the money desperately.

During their conference, King and Jones considered what King termed as "animosity" existing in Alabama by SNCC against the SCLC and him (King). He said the same situation prevailed in Albany, Georgia. SNCC, King remarked, had told the press that "they" laid the groundwork for a sit-in and then he (King) dropped in for the publicity, and that his going to jail was a grandstand play. John Lewis (Chairman of the SNCC), has been in jail thirty seven times but has received little attention, King said SNCC reported. Furthermore, SNCC reported that they labored in the field and their staff worked very hard, then he (King) dropped in to raise funds, King remarked.

King said that Harry (Harry Wachtel) contacted him about a spread in the Long Island paper ("Newsday") in which the reporter related the differences between SNCC and him and attacked his integrity.

In an effort to resolve the differences between SNCC and him, King said he would like for Harry Belafonte (noted singer) to solicit the cooperation of SNCC as he was a supporter of theirs and they would listen to him.

King said he had never gone to the news media to say that SNCC was irresponsible or irrational as "he thought most of them were", and said they had no sense of political timing. Instead of keeping their bitterness in the inner circle, SNCC goes to the press, King remarked.

Jones said that he would call Harry Wachtel to determine what the true picture was, and then contact Harry Belafonte because he had a great affection for King. Furthermore, Jones added that Belafonte always defended the character of King even if it meant putting SNCC down.

Jones said the number one complaint of SNCC was that leaders (civil rights leaders) did not go to the people for decisions but instead, made them without consulting their people. Robert Moses (of SNCC), Jones remarked, was the chief proponent of that theory.

King, in attempting to answer the foregoing, said he did not vote for President Johnson to ask him to go on television and ask everyone to send a telegram advising what to do in Viet Nam; that he had enough faith in his capabilities to trust him to make great decisions.

Re: Communist Influence In Racial Matters

Jones remarked that jealousies and differences were inevitable but that all groups should form a coalition and work together. King replied that SNCC wanted to work with the SCLC in Alabama, but with the bitterness now existing, he did not desire to do so. He said that possibly sometime the leaders of SNCC, Harry Belafonte and he could get together and discuss their differences as they had in Albany, Georgia.

Among other matters discussed by King and Jones was a group in New Rochelle, New York, which King said already had $5,000 and desired to use it for a fund raising project to earn more. King said there was a pressing need of money in the SCLC.

Jones said the advertisement which appeared in "The New York Times" (advertisement soliciting funds, February 5, 1965, on behalf of the SCLC) cost $2,000. King said his office had already received $12,000 this week (week of February 6-13, 1965), as a consequence of the advertisement.

Their conference ended on the note that efforts would be made to encourage the New Rochelle group to increase the $5,000 as much as possible.

Re: Communist Influence In Racial Matters

In "The Saturday Evening Post", issue of July 11-18, 1964, page 76, Bayard Rustin is the subject of a feature article captioned: "The Lone Wolf of Civil Rights". In it, Rustin is said to have come to New York in 1938, as an organizer for the Young Communist League (YCL), and as such, he had the job of recruiting students for the "Party". Furthermore, the article reports that during his first years in New York, Rustin gave most of his earnings to the "Party". He reportedly left the "Party" in 1941, the article states.

The YCL has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

The "Daily Worker", February 11, 1957, page 1, column 2, reported that Bayard Rustin, Executive Secretary, War Resisters League, was an observer at the 16th National Convention of the Communist Party, United States of America (CPUSA), held in New York City, on February 9-12, 1957.

The "Daily Worker" was an East Coast Communist publication until it ceased publication on January 13, 1958.

NATIONAL LAWYERS GUILD

The "Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications," revised and published as of December 1, 1961, prepared and released by the Committee on Un-American Activities, United States House of Representatives, Washington, D.C., contains the following concerning the National Lawyers Guild:

"National Lawyers Guild

- "1. Cited as a Communist front.
(Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House Report 1311 on the CIO Political Action Committee, March 29, 1944, p. 149.)
- "2. Cited as a Communist front which 'is the foremost legal bulwark of the Communist Party its front organizations, and controlled unions' and which 'since its inception has never failed to rally to the legal defense of the Communist Party and individual members thereof, including known espionage agents.'
(Committee on Un-American Activities, House Report 3123 on the National Lawyers Guild, September 21, 1950, originally related September 17, 1950.)
- "3. 'To defend the cases of Communist lawbreakers, fronts have been devised making special appeals in behalf of civil liberties and reaching out far beyond the confines of the Communist Party itself. Among these organizations are the * * * National Lawyers Guild. When the Communist Party itself is under fire these offer a bulwark of protection.'
(Internal Security Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Handbook for Americans, S. Doc. 117, April 23, 1956, p. 91.)"

Re: Communist Influence In Social Matters

YOUNG SOCIALIST LEAGUE (YSL)

The March 1, 1954, issue of the "Young Socialist Challenge," published as page three of "Labor Action," an official publication of the Independent Socialist League (ISL), contained an article concerning the creation of the YSL, which pointed out that at a unity conference occurring February 12-14, 1954, at Labor Action Hall, New York, New York, a merger occurred between the Young People's Socialist League (YPSL) and the Socialist Youth League (SYL). The new organization was named the YSL.

A confidential informant on June 15, 1954, made available the minutes of the YSL's National Action Committee meeting of April 13, 1954, which reflected that one S. SITERMAN, "Chairman of SP (Socialist Party) Youth Committee," had objected to a statement appearing in "Commerce," a New York University journal, which indicated that the YPSL merged with the SYL to form the YSL. He explained that the YPSL did not merge with anyone, that it continued to exist as the youth section of the Socialist Party. He explained that a small group of the YPSL was dropped, expelled, or suspended from that organization and joined the SYL, which he characterized as the youth group of the "Trotskyite ISL." He explained that after these few former members of the YPSL joined the SYL, the SYL then proceeded to change its name for its own purposes.

On April 9, 1956, another confidential informant advised as follows:

The YSL has frequently worked in close sympathetic cooperation with the ISL toward similar objectives, although each major issue given mutual consideration is decided upon by these organizations individually. The YSL serves as an apprenticeship for the ISL, but ISL selection of members from YSL ranks is made on an individual and personal basis. In many instances YSL members are also members of the ISL.

YOUNG SOCIALIST LEAGUE (YSL) CONT'D.

The YSL and ISL utilize the same printing house in New York City and the YSL publication is printed as an insert in "Labor Action." Frequently, lecturers before the YSL are ISL members.

The September 22, 1959, issue of "Young Socialist Challenge," which appeared as page five of "Labor Action," contained an undated statement from the National Action Committee of the YSL which indicated that the YSL had been dissolved. The statement appeared under the caption "Join the Young Peoples Socialist League."

The YPSL is publicly known as the youth affiliate of the Socialist Party-Social Democratic Federation.
